

Ottit Inc. — RAG Knowledge Base Demo

Demo dataset for a Retrieval-Augmented Generation (RAG) system

Purpose: This document combines selected public Ottit information with information contained in the supplied Policies document. It is structured so individual facts can be retrieved by a RAG system.

Important: Public figures such as managed monthly revenue are company-reported metrics, not audited annual revenue. Salary figures are public job-posting ranges and should not be treated as the salary of every employee.

4. Client & Service Profile

A public Ottit job posting describes the firm as a full-service bookkeeping firm offering cloud solutions to Shopify merchants generating approximately $3M–$25M/year. Another posting describes clients including e-commerce, SaaS companies, and agencies with annual revenues between $1M and $50M. These ranges describe target/client profiles in those postings, not Ottit's own revenue. ■cite■turn0search1■turn0search2■

5. Pricing Example

An Ottit 2026 article states that bookkeeping services for Shopify brands typically range from $300 to $3,000 per month, depending on factors such as GMV, transaction volume, sales channels, and inventory complexity. Another Ottit article presents a $450/month all-in example for a Shopify/A2X workflow. These are published pricing examples and should not be interpreted as a universal Ottit client price.

6. Existing Internal Policies — RAG Facts

BRB policy

BRB is intended for short, unplanned breaks and generally should not exceed 15 minutes at a time, up to twice per day. The policy requires Slack status updates when starting and ending BRB.

■filecite■turn0file0■L3-L25■

Professional designation fees

Ottit states that eligible contractors may receive 100% coverage of approved CPA, ACCA, or other professional designation exam fees, subject to advance approval. ■filecite■turn0file0■L35-L56■

Profit sharing

Contractors are eligible to participate in a profit-sharing program, but distributions are not guaranteed and depend on factors including firm profitability, seniority, tenure, client communication, retention, and performance. ■filecite■turn0file0■L103-L129■

Time tracking

The policy states that Hubstaff is used to track time and activity. Team members must accurately track working time and pause tracking during breaks and personal time. ■filecite■turn0file0■L667-L702■

Slack communication

Slack is described as the main communication channel. During work hours, team members are generally expected to respond within 30 minutes unless offline or in a meeting. ■filecite■turn0file0■L312-L370■

Client credentials

Ottit personnel must not use client-owned usernames/passwords. Client-system access should use individual named accounts with the minimum permissions required. ■filecite■turn0file0■L486-L523■
